

Edinburgh's Hogmanay

At Midnight, 4.5 tonnes of fireworks are fired out of Edinburgh Castle.

| | | |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| On the 30th and 31st December, people listen to music groups and watch fireworks. | On the 30 th December, in Edinburgh, people walk with torchlights. It looks like a river of fire ! | On the 31st December, just before Midnight, people sing Aul Lang Syne . |
| On the 1st January, there is the Loony Dook . People wear costumes and jump into the River Forth. | On the 1st January, there is First footing . The first foot in the house after Midnight, with presents : coal, whisky, black bun or shortbread. | |

| | | |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| On the 30th and 31st December, people listen to music groups and watch fireworks. | On the 30 th December, in Edinburgh, people walk with torchlights. It looks like a river of fire ! | On the 31st December, just before Midnight, people sing Aul Lang Syne . |
| On the 1st January, there is the Loony Dook . People wear costumes and jump into the River Forth. | On the 1st January, there is First footing . The first foot in the house after Midnight, with presents : coal, whisky, black bun or shortbread. | |

| | | |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| On the 30th and 31st December, people listen to music groups and watch fireworks. | On the 30 th December, in Edinburgh, people walk with torchlights. It looks like a river of fire ! | On the 31st December, just before Midnight, people sing Aul Lang Syne . |
| On the 1st January, there is the Loony Dook . People wear costumes and jump into the River Forth. | On the 1st January, there is First footing . The first foot in the house after Midnight, with presents : coal, whisky, black bun or shortbread. | |

| | | |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| On the 30th and 31st December, people listen to music groups and watch fireworks. | On the 30 th December, in Edinburgh, people walk with torchlights. It looks like a river of fire ! | On the 31st December, just before Midnight, people sing Aul Lang Syne . |
| On the 1st January, there is the Loony Dook . People wear costumes and jump into the River Forth. | On the 1st January, there is First footing . The first foot in the house after Midnight, with presents : coal, whisky, black bun or shortbread. | |

| | | |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| On the 30th and 31st December, people listen to music groups and watch fireworks. | On the 30 th December, in Edinburgh, people walk with torchlights. It looks like a river of fire ! | On the 31st December, just before Midnight, people sing Aul Lang Syne . |
| On the 1st January, there is the Loony Dook . People wear costumes and jump into the River Forth. | On the 1st January, there is First footing . The first foot in the house after Midnight, with presents : coal, whisky, black bun or shortbread. | |